Carlsbad Police Offers Classes for Parents with Difficult Teens

Carlsbad, CA – City of Carlsbad Police Department will be offering a series of classes for parents called “The Parent Project.”

“The Parent Project” is an award winning, activity based parenting course that supports parents through the challenging adolescent years. Penny Velazquez, program administrator and course instructor said, “Parents of strong-willing and out-of-control teens have found this program very helpful.”

Classes will be 10 consecutive Tuesday nights from 6 to 9 p.m., starting March 27th. The classes will be held at the Carlsbad Senior Center, 799 Pine Avenue. The classes are open to all parents, not just City of Carlsbad residents.

The fee for class materials is $25 per individual or $35 per couple. There is no cost for active duty military families. To register for the classes or for more information, contact Guide Director Penny Velazquez at 760-931-2167 or penny.velazquez@carlsbadca.gov.
